COMMISSIONERS CHANGE BONDS; PAVING TO BE STARTED AT ONCE

Board Decides to Make New Issue at Five Per Cent, One to Ten Years.

AFTER SOME DELIBERATION

Arrived at Decision Late This Afternoon After Hearing Report of County Treasurer Moor.

ATTEMPTED TO SELL OTHERS

Telegram Sent to Adams Bros. Construction Company—Indianapolis Firm Will Buy Issue.

At three-thirty o'clock this afternoon the county commissioners decided to make a new bond issue to pay for the pavement of Main and Second streets under the three-mile law, the bonds to be sold at five per cent and to run from one to ten years. An Indianapolis firm, which desires to have the name withheld, has agreed to buy the bonds at that rate and the issue will be made out immediately. A telegram was sent to the Adams Brothers Construction company of Zanesville, Ohio, telling them of the action of the board. The work will be started immediately just as soon as the bonds are sold.

The raising of the bond issue has been the bone of contention since the board was first petitioned to change the issue from four and one-half to five per cent and to reduce the period ten years. The commissioners were petitioned by the parties interested in the improvement to raise the issue after it was found they could not be sold. They refused to make the change and then the petition of about four hundred business men was presented. They still refused, but finally agreed to change the time to ten years and leave the interest at four and one-half per cent.

County Treasurer Moor went to Indianapolis Monday and found that they could not be sold even with that change. He made his report to the commissioners this afternoon and also stated that only one firm could be found which would take the bonds at five, one to ten. After considerable deliberation, they decided to change the issue so that the work could be started at once. Attorneys say that approximately $23,000 was saved. Two commissioners voted for the change and one held out against it.

GIRLS ARE GIVEN SPACE IN PAPER

Local Misses Who Sold Lemonade For Mission Fund Get Pictures in Indianapolis Star.

The eight little girls of this city who sold lemonade here a few weeks ago, the proceeds to go to the Indianapolis Star Summer Mission fund, broke into print today, their pictures appearing in the Star this morning. It will be remembered that the girls sold lemonade on Main street and made, clear of all expenses, eight dollars. They sent the money to the fund with the notation that they worked hard and hoped that the lives of more than one sick baby might be saved during the hot summer months as the result of their efforts. The girls were Marjorie Thomas, Ethel Handy, Gladys Bebout, Kathryn Guffin, Dorothy Mulno, Mary Louise Poe, Katherine Wooden and Mary Louise Blise.

A SMALL CANINE IS CLEVER MILK THIEF

Intelligent Dog Waits For Dairyman to Place Bottles on Porch and Then Steals Them.

WAS A MYSTERY FOR A TIME

The mystery of milk disappearing from the porches of residents of Greensburg for the past week has been solved and those who have suffered from the raids of what was believed to be boys, now know how to successfully combat the thief, for the thief is an unusually intelligent fox terrier dog named "Fritz."

The dog is owned by Miss Marie Russel, a society leader. "Fritz" skirmishes for his choice of food with all the cunning for which his breed is noted and watches the neighbors' houses for the approach of the dairyman. If the bottle is left to rest on the porch he takes it. He carries the bottle in his mouth to a secluded spot, takes his front paw to remove the pasteboard cover and devours the contents. He does it so artistically that not a drop of milk is spilled. It is said that the animal never molests the milk left on the porch of its owner.

HELD MEETING ON THE GREAT LAKES

W. B. Wright, Auditor of I. & C. Returns From Sessions of the Accounting Conference.

LOCAL MAN PRESENTED PAPER

W. B. Wright of this city, auditor of the I. & C. Traction company recently attended a very enjoyable and profitable meeting of the Central Electric Accounting Conference—enjoyable because the meeting took place on board the White Star Line steamer Greyhound enroute between Toledo and Detroit. The meeting was profitable because many problems were discussed and papers treating on important subjects were read. Mr. Wright presented a paper on "Uniform Comparative Monthly Statements," which was deemed important enough to be printed in full in the July number of the Electric Railway Journal. Mr. Wright was made chairman of a committee to look further into the matter presented by him in his paper, and to submit forms of comparative statements, with a view of adopting standard forms at the next meeting.

BI-MONTHLY SHOOT.

CURES SETTING HENS.

Putting a hen in a tub with two inches of cold water in the bottom, covering it up and keeping her there for twelve hours, is a sure cure for the setting habit, according to Farmer Walter Russell Boss of Westerly, R. I. Boss says he has tried the scheme for a couple of years, and his hens now work all year at egg laying.

An English physician has placed on record a case of malaria which remained latent for thirteen years.

ALUMNI HAVE AN ASSOCIATION

High School Graduates Met Last Night and Perfected an Organization.

ELECT TEMPORARY OFFICERS

Committees Were Appointed and Will Report at Meeting, Tuesday, July 26.

The Rushville High School Alumni Association is now a permanent organization after years of effort on the part of old high school graduates. A meeting was held in the court house assembly room last night and temporary officers were elected until the permanent organization is effected. It is believed that as soon as enough interest is aroused a large number of the former graduates can be brought out to a meeting, when officers for the year will be selected. It was decided last night to hold a meeting two weeks from last night, Tuesday, July 26, in the assembly room of the Graham high school building, when the matter of further organization will be considered and the reports of the newly-formed committees will be heard.

About twenty-five graduates of the high school gathered last night for the organization. Much enthusiasm and interest was evinced in the meeting and it is the belief of the younger graduates who have the movement in charge that the success of the organization is assured. The various methods of obtaining the best association was considered as also were plans to arouse interest among the older graduates. A committee on by-laws was appointed to draw up articles for the association. A committee on membership was also appointed, which will make an effort to get word to every graduate of the high school, giving them notice of the organization and requesting them to become members. No list of the graduates can be obtained as yet. Any graduate, who wishes to become a member is requested to send their name into the newspapers. Temporary officers were elected until September, when it is planned to hold a big rousing meeting when officers will be selected for the year. The committee on by-laws was instructed to decide on some annual affair for the association.

The following temporary officers were chosen: Birney Spradling, '04, president; Roy Harold, '04 vice-president; Miss Marguerite Neutzelhelzer, '07, secretary, and Miss Helen Black, '10, treasurer. The membership committee, as appointed, is Hugh Mauzy, '02, Miss Carrie Kitchen, '00, Ralph Stiffler, '06, Miss Mary Amos, '05, and Bruce Cline, '09. The committee on by-laws is, Roy Harold, '04, Miss Bernice Anderson, '06, and Amos Baxter, '08.

THROWN FROM HIS BICYCLE

Joe Dickman Receives Slight Injuries This Morning.

Joe Dickman, the good natured furniture doctor, escaped what might have been serious injury this morning when he was thrown from his bicycle by the handle bars slipping out of place. He was riding on Third street near Main when the handle bars slipped through their socket and this threw him to the ground quite heavily, but the only injuries were a few bruises and scratches.

France still has eleven thousand men encamped on Moroccan soil.

TAKE ONE CASE; LEAVE ANOTHER

Thieves Steal Thirty-six Pints of Beer From Pennsylvania Depot at Manilla.

The Road Detectives Find "Empties" And Also The Robbers—Have Taken no Action Yet.

Under the cover of darkness thieves stole a case of beer from the platform of the Pennsylvania depot in Manilla one night recently. There were two cases of beer there, each containing thirty-six pint bottles, and the most remarkable part of the story is that they stole only one case. It is very evident that the number of robbers was very small and could not drink much or they possibly would have looted both cases.

The theft was discovered the next morning, when the station agent, Scott Winkinson, arrived. A short investigation revealed the fact that the case of "wet" goods had been carried about one mile east of the station and the contents of the twenty-four bottles had been drunk, because all of the "empties" were found there in the case. The agent reported the robbery to the officials and a road detective was sent to Manilla immediately.

It was not long before the identity of the men who committed the petty theft had been discovered. It is uncertain as to what the outcome of the discovery will be. It is said that the bars are staring the guilty parties in the face, although the value of the goods stolen only amounted to one dollar and seventy-five cents. A corporation like the Pennsylvania railroad never does things by halves and it is said that a grand jury investigation will be instituted as soon as the proper time arrives.

The beer was ordered by a well-known farmer living near Manilla a few days ago from an Indianapolis agent. Through an oversight on the part of the Pennsylvania agent, the two cases of beer were left out on the platform all night. The agent secreted the other case of beer in the station just as soon as the discovery of the robbery was made so that he would not be revisited by another misfortune, that of having the other case stolen.

SITS DOWN ON OIL CAN AND IS HURT

William Cover is Painfully Injured While Working on I. & C. Traction Line This Morning.

BLOOD POISONING IS FEARED

William Cover, a workman on the I. & C. traction line, sat down on an oil can this morning and was painfully injured, when the sharp point on the can penetrated about two and one-half inches into the fleshy portion of the body near his hip. The pain was very great and there is some danger of blood poisoning arising. Cover was stooping over, while at work near the Big Four crossing in Seventh street, when the accident happened. He was taken to his home and Dr. E. I. Wooden was called to dress the injury.

BIG WEDNESDAY IS SUCCESSFUL

Large Crowd of Women and Children Take Advantage of Incentives Offered by Merchants.

A BAND CONCERT TONIGHT

"Big Wednesday" was again a success. A large crowd, which surpassed all expectations, took advantage of the bargains, and the free amusements which the merchants of the city offered as an incentive to visit in the business portions. The crowd was made up mostly of women and children, for most of the men of the county are busily engaged in harvest.

The Manilla band furnished the music for the day. Lambrigger's Zoo was flooded with people after an argument had been settled between the "Big Wednesday" attraction committee and the manager of the enterprise. The D. A. R. rest room was again the haunt of many tired and weary shoppers. The five-cent shows offered exceptionally good bills to the amusement seekers. Tonight the Rushville band will give a concert on the northwest corner of the court house lawn.

DECIDE SUIT IN SUPREME COURT

High Tribunal Decides in Favor of Mrs. Fanny Hildreth's Heirs.

WAS FOUGHT IN THREE COURTS

The Supreme court has reversed the decision of the Appellate court and concurred with the Rush circuit court in the case of Minnie Mundy et al. vs. Elvira Stiers et al. The suit was in regard to the Hildreth property in North Main street.

Mrs. Hildreth had made her will leaving the property to her husband, Col. James Hildreth for life, and after his death the property was to go to the Mesdames Minnie Mundy, Alvan Moor and Ab Denning. Mr. Hildreth failed to sign the will accepting it, and on that ground the suit was filed by his heirs for possession of his third of the property, which they maintained legally belongs to his estate, since he failed to accept his wife's will.

Suit was brought in the Rush circuit court by Mr. Hildreth's heirs and it held in favor of Mrs. Hildreth's heirs. Appeal was taken to the Appellate court, which reversed the circuit court's decision. Appeal was then taken to the Supreme court which reversed the Appellate court's decision, deciding the case in favor of Minnie Mundy et al.

Generally fair tonight and Thursday.

'NO MORE TAKIN' WASHIN' FOR ME'

Mrs. A. E. Bradshaw, Formerly Mrs. Nancy Murdock of Manilla, is Married the Third Time.

IS A WELL KNOWN CHARACTER

Says Her New Husband is Not Pretty But Can Keep Her From Over Wash Tub.

"The third time is a charm," said Mrs. A. E. Bradshaw in the county clerk's office this morning after having been joined in marriage for the third time. Mr. Bradshaw could hardly express his opinion of success, for the vast majority of his teeth were missing.

With orange blossoms in her hair, wearing a black near-silk distinctly "peekaboo" wedding gown, a tan linen coat trimmed in "sky high" blue, and oxford oxfords, Mrs. Nancy C. Murdock of Manilla escorted A. E. Bradshaw of Washington county to the county clerk's bar in quest of an official document that would make marriage a possibility.

She first gave her name as Katherine C. Cooper, but Deputy Spradling recognized her and asked her if she was not Nancy C. Murdock. By placing the divorce records before her she admitted that she was. Through the long list of questions as to insanity, etc., both parties answered "no," excepting to the question, "Is this your first marriage?" and received the reply that it was the third for each party.

While waiting for the Rev. J. W. Turner to come to perform the marriage ceremony, Mrs. Murdock asked for a newspaper man. Her request was granted and she took the opportunity to hand out a long "spiel" that went like this: "Now, honey, please don't publish this marriage right away. You see I have been washing most all the time lately, and I am goin' to get married. He is not very pretty, but he has 120 acres of land and I believe that he can keep me from over the washing tub. And, anyway, if all my friends down at Manilla find me out I might get a ride on a rail. So please don't publish my marriage right away."

Mrs. Murdock was the defendant in a divorce case on May 10, but failing to appear to answer several sensational charges, her husband was granted his plea. She can also be remembered as having been ejected by her landlord, Jacob Stiers, from his property on Saturday, July 3, even after she offered to pay the rent. At that time there was some rough talk and rough handling of each other, and Mrs. Murdock alleged that he had made declarations of love to her.

Mr. and Mrs. Bradshaw will make a wedding journey to the bridegroom's farm in Washington county tomorrow, where they will take up permanent residence.

WILL TOUR EAST.

Anderson Bulletin: Col. and Mrs. W. T. Durbin made a trip to Rushville Sunday in their big Packard touring car. They visited "Oom" Jack Gowdy, ex-consul to France. The roads were fine and the trip was quite pleasant. Tom Gilmore drove the machine. The Durbins expect to drive over and tour the East during the latter part of the summer.

Indiana working men are in line with the Republican party this year. This is one of the many reassuring signs of the political times.

Senator Shively, of Indiana, the man who is against the tariff commission idea, is the same man who is reported "not voting" 62 times on tariff schedules, and "voting" 63 times. Not much of a batting average.

Senator Beveridge said before he left for Oyster Bay that the Republican plurality in Indiana this year would be 50,000. Attorney General Bingham says that Roosevelt's coming will add 10,000 more. An Indianapolis letter to state papers says that if Taft comes into the State, it will add 25,000. This foots up 85,000, which it is estimated is more votes than the joint effort of the three Indianapolis papers in behalf of the Republican party will drive away from it—Muncie Press.

It was in 1896 that the Democrats yelled for high prices. They had good cause to yell at times, for prices were at the logical famine level which Democratic maladministration and blundering had forced on the country. In the period from 1892 to 1896, wheat had gone down to 50 cents a bushel. Corn was 25 cents a bushel, and lower. Oats were down to 15 cents. Hogs were $3.50, and other produces were in proportion. It is not necessary to repeat the prices which now prevail. But there is a difference. And the difference, decidedly, is in favor of these Republican times, with logic pointing surely to a continuation of present conditions.

Wrong Again.

That Rush county is not the only place where the field examiners for the State board of public accounts have made mistakes or rather indiscreet findings in their reports is evidenced by the howl that is going up from Cass county. The examiners found that nine ex-trustees of that county were "short" in their accounts.

One of the accused men has found in the auditor's office what the examiners could not find—the document which shows that he is square with the township. He found it in a very few minutes. They looked for days (at $10 a day). Another one says that he not only is square with the world and can prove it, but that he has a farm he will spend prosecuting the men who have made the unfounded charges against him. The prosecutor has begun his investigation of the charges and has already found clean bills against four of the accused men. It took him about two days to undo the work of the examiners for several days (at $10 a day).

There is no effort to discount the intent of the law—that of ferreting out wrong doers in public office. But there is certainly room for condemnation of the way it is being done. Either the methods employed are bad or the examination which the field examiners were compelled to take was entirely too simple. Perhaps the latter is in a measure true, but the former is apparent.

The man whose books are being investigated should certainly be given a hearing. Take the case of Mr. Crosby here. The report of his alleged shortage was sent broadcast over the State before he even had an inkling that there were any charges against him. His statement explained many of the alleged irregularities which would never have been reported if he had had an opportunity to explain them.

The majority of the irregularities seem to be technicalities. The salary the trustees receive will not employ experienced bookkeepers. Hence there are bound to be things which are not up to the standard of expert bookkeepers. Suppose that a former trustee is accused of being short $500. It is found to be technicalities. But the reading public reads as it runs. It sees that he is short, finds no denial and thinks him a criminal when in fact there is no justification for the charges.

From all appearances the field examiners are anxious to find mistakes and do not work on the theory that it is their business to find out WHETHER OR NOT THE BOOKS ARE CORRECT as they should. It is right to punish the man who has intentionally misappropriated funds which have been intrusted to him. But this thing of making wholesale charges against men without giving them a hearing is an outrage. The field examiners in their righteous anxiety to earn their $10 a day are damaging many innocent men and we believe that further development will show that the present methods of investigating public offices is bad.

It's Your Duty.

It is the duty of every man, woman and child in Rush county to support the annual Rush county chautauqua, which will be held at the city park August 7 to 14 inclusive. The chautauqua is a public institution, founded for the public, operated for the public and is a benefit to the public. Hence it should be supported by the public.

Without the support of the residents of the county in general the assembly is a failure. It has been proven that the venture is not a money making one and that managers have given their untiring labor to the cause all without any financial gain. It is purely an institution for the people, the only ones who derive any gain from it.

It is their duty to give their liberal financial as well as moral support. Talk about it, tell your neighbors about it and invite your friends from the surrounding cities to attend. Buying a season ticket only adds $1.50 to the good of the cause. But if you can succeed in selling ten tickets, then you have added fifteen dollars to the general fund.

The chautauqua can not be a success without the necessary funds. The high priced talent which has been on the program at the previous assemblies has cost money and it will cost more money this year. Such men as Bryan, Herbert, Bain Cleary and McConnell can not be obtained without a liberal offer.

Chautauquas all around Rushville have been failing every year, while the local assembly has been going on serenely. But to be laggardly might mean failure and that would mean the end of the institution in this county. Several assemblies in the State failed last summer while they were in progress. Rushville hopes to be better than ever this year.

Back to the Press.

(Muncie Press.)

Recently a metropolitan newspaper issued a statement showing the percentage of creative labor and the percentage of labor that is not creative. The ratio has changed greatly in the last few years, and it is shown that more persons are engaging in work that does not make anything new, that does not produce anything that is really a help to the people. Those who create are such as the farmers, the wagon makers, the boiler makers, all engaged in raising food or in making finished products from raw material. The fact that there are relatively fewer people engaged now than formerly in creative labor is one of the biggest things at the bottom of the increased cost of living. And creative work is and always will be that from which the greatest gain may be had.

We will not attempt to go to the bottom of the motives that take people away from the creative fields into other lines of work, but we will say that one of the many possible motives is sheer snobishness. If half of the energy exhausted otherwise were put into plowing furrows and raising corn and cattle, there would be a reduction in the price of beef. If half of the failures in the medical, the legal and other unproductive professions should get busy in some more useful employment the price of food and commodities would be reduced just so much and the failures would be turned to successes. If the school boy who dreams of a "career" should quit dreaming and start out to raise pigs and study something about the pig business—about what a pig is, how much it will eat in a certain time, what sort of food is best, how much it costs to ship it certain distances, how these costs can be lowered, etc—the world would be improved. The youth might wear overalls, but he probably would have automobiles to go to church in when Sunday comes.

The tendency toward the "gentlemanly" position and away from the "job" is a mistake, a sad mistake and a significant one. There has been a great deal of talk of late about the exit from the farm to the city. A little talk about the exit from common sense to snobbery would be more pertinent.

The Government's Money Laundry

By Thomas G. Gannaway, in Scientific America

Very few people realize the vast amount of money spent by the government each year for the manufacture of our paper currency and the maintenance of its circulation. It actually costs "Uncle Sam" $13.50 per thousand notes (regardless of denominations) to manufacture and put them into circulation. This is equal to an annual interest of almost 1 1/4 per cent. on the $1 notes, which have an average life of only fourteen months. The life of small notes is very much shorter than that of the larger denominations, because of the greater amount of handling which they receive, therefore, the greater part of the expense of our paper currency circulation is incurred with the smaller denominations. This is better understood when we learn that the $1., $2 and $5 notes—excluding national bank currency—compose about 43 3/4 per cent. of the number of the notes in circulation. The larger denominations are fit for circulation much longer after they are first issued than the smaller ones, hence do not have to be redeemed so soon thereafter.

A very large portion of the notes which come back to the Treasury Department for redemption are not worn out, but are merely soiled from rough usage.

As a result of the clamor for economy in public expenditures, and also for clean paper currency, the Director of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, Mr. Joseph E. Ralph, conceived the idea of putting these soiled notes through a laundering process and then back into circulation. The more he studied the scheme the more feasible it appeared to him. He submitted his plan to the Secretary of the Treasury, and he (the Secretary) appointed a committee composed of Mr. C. S. Pearce of the Treasurer's office, chairman; Mr. Burgess Smith of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, chemist; Mr. George Leet of the Secretary's office; Mr. C. C. Pusey, Assistant Treasurer at Baltimore, and Mr. L. R. Acton, a paper expert of Washington.

These men have been experimenting with the laundering process for about seven months, and, as a result of these experiments, have proved beyond a reasonable doubt the feasibility of the scheme.

The process of washing the money is very simple, being almost identical to that used by the steam laundries all over the country. The chairman of the committee says: "The scheme of laundering paper money is here to stay, but the exact method of washing it has not yet been decided upon." The committee is experimenting with two or three styles of tubs. One of the most feasible plans is to put the notes into a wire contrivance, which holds them in such manner as to prevent any friction whatever, and also prevents them from piling together. The contrivance consists of a number of wire trays with a single layer of notes in each, and then stacked together and placed inside of a cylindrical tub filled with suds made with a soap specially prepared for this work by Mr. Burgess Smith, chemist, who has charge of the practical part of it. The soap is composed principally of potash and some high grade oils. Mr. Smith is now trying to manufacture a soap which will cleanse the money and at the same time bleach it.

After the trays of money have been placed in the suds, which have been heated to a temperature of 130 deg. to 140 deg. F., the tub is closed and started to revolving. A greater temperature than 140 deg. F. has proved to be injurious to the money. This process is kept going for ten to fifteen minutes, during which time the dirt has been removed from the notes. They are then taken out and rinsed the same way in clear water for about five minutes to remove all the suds. Next it is put into a germicide bath of the nature of formaldehyde, thereby killing all germs which may be lurking around on it. It is taken from this and bleached and partially dried. The next step is to put it through the sizing tub, or vat, as it may be called. This vat contains a 10 per cent. solution of glue with a little alum in it. There are a number of small endless belts, which pass over rollers at the top of either end of the vat and under one in the solution. The money is fed in between these belts at one end of the vat, and they carry it down through the solution and drop it out at the other end. It is then taken to the ironing machine.

Here it is placed in stacks containing about forty notes each, with a piece of Fuller (or press) board separating the notes from each other. The press board is a thin flexible substance, resembling a thin piece of sole leather. These stacks are taken one at a time and fed through between two heavy steel rollers, which are held together with a 30-ton pressure. Each stack of notes is put through two of these machines, which completes the ironing and gives them a glossy, new appearance.

The laundry is now washed and ironed, and the only thing left to be done is to place it in the drying room, for the purpose of getting rid of every particle of moisture that it may contain. It pays to launder money for the same reason that it pays to have your linen laundered instead of throwing it away and buying a new supply.

The yellow ink used on the gold certificates is of such a character that the potash dissolves it, and it is washed out, hence they cannot be laundered. So it is with the signatures of the bank officers on the national bank notes. The committee hopes, eventually, to overcome this difficulty. As it is at present, they can only launder silver certificates and Treasury notes, but these compose a very large percentage of our paper money.

In my calculation I shall exclude national bank notes, as they are in a class of paper currency by themselves, and for the reason stated cannot yet be laundered. During the year 1909, there were 187,784,000 $1, $2 and $5 notes issued, and in the same period of time there were 177,412,809 notes of the same denominations destroyed. At the close of the year 1909 there were 222,365,692 notes of these three denominations still in circulation. The cost to the government for manufacturing and issuing these 187,784,000 notes was $2,535,084. The cost of destroying the 177,412,809 notes was $390,308.18, making a grand total of $2,925,392.18 for maintaining the circulation of notes of only three denominations for one year.

It is estimated that it will not cost more than one-tenth of one per cent. per note to launder them. It is claimed that laundering the notes will add at least eight months or 56 per cent. to the life of them, thereby diminishing the annual redemptions by 56 per cent. The redeeming and issuing of the 177,412,809 notes in 1909 cost the government $2,787,155.28. With the new process 56 per cent of this, or $1,560,806.93 less $298,053.52, the cost of laundering and reissuing of the 56 per cent. of the redemptions for 1909, would be saved. This would leave a net saving of $1,262,753.41 in one year on the circulation of $1, $2 and $5 notes only (national bank notes excluded).

Make Attack on Jail Conditions

A sweeping expose and attack upon the system of county jails and upon asylums in Indiana is contained in the latest publication of the State board of Charities, "The Development of Public Charities and Correction in Indiana," which fell from the press Saturday.

"The county jails are not a credit to the State," says the report. "They are in the main poorly administered. "One of the worst features of the county jail system is the idleness of the prisoners. Those who have studied the situation have recommended to the legislature the establishment of a system of district workhouse under state control.

"Each county in the State has a poor asylum. It has been described as the indiscriminate gathering place of the wrecks and failures of humanity. In times past there have been found among the inmates the insane, the feeble-minded, the epileptic, the deaf, the blind, the crippled, the shiftless, homeless and bright young children.

"To a certain, though far less extent, these conditions prevail at the present time, but the awakening of public sentiment to a realization of society's duty not only to such unfortunate but to itself, has resulted in a gradual sifting out of special classes."

The board states in the matter of construction the older asylums are inferior in plan and arrangement.

Requoting a former report of the board as applicable to conditions as they exist today, the statement of Saturday says:

"Nothing in our entire system of public charities in more distressing than the enforced presence of insane persons in county poor asylums and jails. These institutions lack proper facilities for caring for them. The secretary of the board on a recent visit to an asylum found an insane woman locked in a cell of the men's department of the custodial building. She had no privacy whatever.

"There is also to be considered the injustice of turning into an insane asylum the only home the public provides for the aged and sick poor."

The board in response to many requests for information gives the entire history of the State's penal and correctional institutions. The book is a tribute to the skill of the young craftsmen of the Indiana Reformatory Printing Trade School at Jeffersonville. It is typographically beautiful and profusely illustrated.

The work contains a review of the State's legislation along social lines for many years, and is replete with praise for some of the institutions. It suggests as models for county prisons the St. Joseph county jail at South Bend, erected in 1897 at a cost, exclusive of the residence, of $35,000, and of the Jay county jail at Portland, erected in 1900 at a cost of $29,930. In many ways these jails are regarded as the best types of their kind in the State.

"The legislation of 1909 deserves credit for a law which provides for a more thorough supervision of county jails than has heretofore been possible," says the report.

The State board commends the indeterminate sentence law which gives the prison authorities an opportunity to release prisoners who are deemed capable of becoming law abiding citizens and to retain for a longer period those who have not shown satisfactory evidence of reformation. It is stated that in actual practice the law has resulted in considerably lengthening the average time of service in prison. While a number of employers have bount the paroled prisoners unsatisfactory workmen the majority have expressed themselves as well satisfied.

FIRE FROM HEAVEN.

(Shelbyville Republican.)

While Sherman Havens, one of the prominent farmers of Marion township, was seated on the porch at his home Tuesday during the storm, his attention was suddenly attracted to a ball of fire about the size of a coconut descending from the heavens. At the same time there was a roar of thunder. Mr. Havens noticed the ball drop in a wheat shock. He ran through the fields and over into the Kaster farm, where the ball had dropped and the only thing he found was the remains of the shock which had been almost consumed by fire. And then he woke up.

AMUSEMENTS

"The Romance of a Snake Charmer" is the title of the film to be shown at the Vaudet theater tonight. It is said to be a drama of rare entertaining qualities with strong dramatic action and many startling and thrilling situations. A new illustrated song will be sung.

The Palace management offers a big double show tonight in the two pictures, "The Purgation," a Biography, and "His Child's Captive," a Lubin film. Each film is a thousand foot film, so that a show twice as long as is generally given may be seen. Both pictures are advertised as good dramas with extraordinarily good plots.

The Star Grand offers a big double show tonight in two reels of pictures entitled "A HONEYMOON FOR THREE," a comedy subject of a very fine quality. It is a delightfully interesting picture that will send a thrill of keen, unalloyed bliss through the heart of every person who sees it. It is comedy of the screaming variety and with the little touch of pathos added it is without doubt the most pleasing picture ever put on. A western drama, "The Bad Man's Last Deed," will also be shown. The illustrated song will be "Where we Listen to the Mocking Bird."

HORSE CAN RING THE BELL.

(Shelbyville Republican.)

Amos Fouty, one of the best known horsemen in Shelby county, has a two-year-old colt which is a wonder. The animal when it is thirsty or wishes salt shows considerable intelligence. For the past few months whenever the colt gets thirsty and there is no water for it convenient, it will go to the fence at the rear of the house, seize the bell rope and ring the bell until some one at the house brings it some water. If it wants salt it does the same thing. Sometimes the men at work out in the field are called in by the ringing of the bell. A few evenings ago the men folks were away from home and the horse began ringing the bell and many of the neighbors called, believing there was trouble at the Fouty homestead.

COMPLETE PLANS FOR TRADE TRIP

Large Delegation of Indianapolis Wholesale Men Will Visit Rushville Friday at Noon.

FRIED CHICKEN DINNER HERE

Telephone Service Will be a Novel Feature of Boosters' Second Trip.

On their trip Friday the Indianapolis jobbers and manufacturers will again be kept in almost constant touch with their own offices by special telephones in the interurban cars on which they will travel, says the Indianapolis Star. The Central Union and Indianapolis Telephone Companies notified the secretary of the Indianapolis Trade Association that they will place instruments in the cars and make arrangements to have these instruments connected with the long distance wires immediately upon arrival in Connersville, Rushville, Greensburg and Shelbyville. This will provide the same sort of service as was furnished the association members on their trip into Northern Indiana a few weeks ago.

This "wireless telephone" service direct from the interurban cars is a distinct innovation. During the Northern Indiana trip connections were made from the cars through to Indianapolis in remarkably short time. Scarcely had the cars come to a standstill in the various cities before temporary wires had been carried from convenient poles and connected with the special instruments. As the calls did not go through local exchanges there was no delay in getting Indianapolis connections.

At a meeting Tuesday E. M. Heaton, Lew W. Cooper, H. T. Benham and John J. Landis were appointed marshals for the excursion, each man to be in charge of a special car.

It will be their duty to see that none of the excursionists is left behind when the cars pull out of a town.

The last long stop of the day will be at Shelbyville, and the Indianapolis men have arranged to entertain the retail merchants of that city with a band concert and an informal reception at the Ray House from 7 to 8 o'clock in the evening.

Although more than 100 reservations have been made on the special cars, it is believed that a great many other members expect to make the trip.

LOUIS TRACY

"By Jove, they're at it!" cried Phillip. "Oh!" she gasped and clung to him more tightly.

Under such circumstances it was only to be expected that his arm would clasp her round the waist.

Hozier strained his eyes through the gloom to try to discover the effect of the cannonade on the gunboat. He was quickly alive to the significance of the answering broadside. Then the black hull grew dim and vanished. His sailor's sympathies went with the escaping ship.

"She has got away! I am jolly glad of it," he cried. "It was a dirty trick to open fire on her in that fashion. Just how they served the Andromeda, the hounds, only we had never a gun to tickle them up in return."

About 6 o'clock a grand review was held in the plaza, or chief square. Dom Corria, a resplendent personage on horseback, made a fine speech. He was vociferously applauded by both troops and populace. General Russo, also mounted, assured him that Brazil was plining for him. In effect when he was firmly established in the presidency the people would be allowed to vote for him.

"We have borne two years of misrule," vociferated the commander in chief, "but it has vanished before the fiery breath of our guns. We hail your excellency as our liberator. Long live Dom Corria! Down with—"

The fierce "Vivas" of the mob, combined with the general's weight, proved too much for his charger, which plunged violently. Russo was held on accidentally by his spurs. There was a lively interlude until an orderly seized the bridle, and the general was able to disengage the restraints from the animal's ribs. When tranquillity was restored the soldiers marched off to their quarters, and Colonel San Benavides boarded the Unser Fritz. He invited Iris, Schmidt, Coke and Hozier to breakfast with the president at the principal hotel.

On the way to the hotel Iris saw a large building labeled "Casa do Correio e Telegrafia." It was not surprising that she had not thought earlier of the necessity of cabling to Liverpool. She blushed and looked involuntarily at Hozier.

"I must send a message to my uncle," she said.

to a condensed version of the original draft; smoothed away the slight hindrance of foreign money tendered in payment and arranged the due delivery of a reply. Perhaps he smiled when he read what she had written. The words were comprehensible even to one who did not understand English:

"Andromeda lost. Arrived here safely. Address, Yorke, Macelo."

Among the four people, therefore, who entered the Hotel Grande in the Rua do Sul there were two whose feelings were the reverse of cheerful. But convention is stronger than the primal impulses—sometimes it triumphs over death itself—and convention was all powerful now. It led Iris away captive in the train of the smiling and voluble Senhora Pondillo, and it immersed Hozier in a tangle of fearsome words which turned out to be the stock in trade of a clothier. The mere male of Macelo decks himself with gay plumage. Phillip was hard put to it before he secured some garments which did not irresistibly recall the heroes of certain musical comedies popular in England.

The appearance of Iris caused something akin to a sensation. The Dona Pondillo could not create English clothes nor bad copies of French, but her own daughters dressed in the height of local fashion, and Dom Corria's earnest request had made them generous. The dark eyed, olive complexioned women of Alagoas are often exceedingly beautiful, but few of those present had ever seen a brown haired, brown eyed, fair faced Englishwoman. Iris was remarkably good looking, even among the pretty girls of her own county of Lancashire. Her large, limpid eyes, well molded nose and perfectly formed mouth were the dominant features of a face that had all the charm of youth and health. Her smooth skin, brown with exposure to sun and air, glowed into a rich crimson when she found herself in the midst of so many strangers. The slightly delicate semblance induced by the hardships and loss of rest which fell to her lot since the Andromeda went to pieces on the Grand-pere rock in nowise detracted from her appearance. She wore the elegant costume of a Macelo belle with ease and distinction. If she was hurried by the undisturbed murmur of admiration that greeted her she did not show it beyond the first rush of color.

Dom Corria, dragging Schmidt with him, hurried to meet her. Surprise at his gala attire helped to conquer her natural timidity, for the president was gorgeous in blue and gold.

"My good wishes are soon changed into congratulations, senhor," she said. "Ah, my dear young lady, I am overjoyed that you should be here to witness my success," he cried. Then, as if he had waited for this moment, he turned to the assembled company and delivered an eloquent panegyric of the Andromeda's crew and their deusa deliciosa—for that is what he called Iris—a delightful goddess.

Hozier, though by no means indifferent to the good fare provided, was wondering how many hours would elapse before Iris' cablegram reached Verity's office, when some words caught his ear that drove all other considerations from his mind.

"I am sorry to say that, in my opinion, there is not the slightest chance of your message reaching England today, Miss Yorke," the president was saying.

"But why not?" she asked, with an astonishment that was not wholly the outcome of regret.

I have taken this remedy since then and it has always been of the greatest benefit."

Even the simplest form of words will be twisted into a political significance. No, I think it best to be quite candid. Until I control Pernambuco, which should be within a week or ten days, you may rest assured that no private cablegrams will be forwarded."

"Oh, dear, I fully expected a reply today," she said, and now that she realized the effect of a further period of anxiety on the Bootle partnership she was genuinely dismayed.

"You may be sure it will not come," said Dom Corria. "Indeed, I may as well take this opportunity of explaining to you and to my other English friends—with the interpolated sentence his glance dwelt quietly on Hozier and Coke—"the exact position locally. You see, Macelo is a small place and easily approached from the sea. A hostile fleet could knock it to pieces in half an hour, and it would be a poor reward for my supporters' loyalty if my presence subjected them to a bombardment. I have no strong defenses or heavy guns to defy attack, and my troops are not more than a thousand men, all told. It is obvious that I must make for the interior. There I gather strength as I advance, the warships cannot pursue, and I can choose my own positions to meet the half hearted forces that Dom Miguel will collect to oppose me. In fact, I and every armed man in Macelo march up country this afternoon."

Iris by this time was thoroughly frightened, and Hozier, who read more in De Sylva's words than was possible in her case, was watching the speaker's calm face with a fixity that might have disconcerted many men. Dom Corria seemed to be unaware of either the girl's distress or Phillip's white anger.

"You naturally ask how I propose to safeguard the companions of my flight from Fernando Noronha," he went on. "I answer at once—by taking them with me. The Senhora Pondillo and her family will accompany her husband to my quinta at Las Flores. A special train will take all of us to the

NO MORE GRAY HAIR

It is easier to preserve the color of the hair than to restore it, although it is possible to do both. Our grandmothers understood the secret. They made and used a "sage tea," and their dark, glossy hair long after middle life was due to this fact. Our mothers have gray hairs before they are fifty, but they are beginning to appreciate the wisdom of our grandmothers in using "sage tea" for their hair, and are fast following suit. The present generation has the advantage of the past in that it can get a ready to use preparation called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur. As a scalp tonic and color restorer, this preparation is vastly superior to the ordinary "sage tea" made by our grandmothers, and it can be bought for 50 cents and $1 a bottle at almost any first-class drug store, or will be sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

A failing tiny nerve—no larger than the finest silken thread—takes from the heart its impulse, its power, its regularity. The stomach also has its hidden, or inside nerve. It was Dr. Shoop who first told us it was wrong to drug a weak or failing Stomach, Heart or Kidneys. His prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—is directed straight for the cause of these ailments—these weak and faltering inside nerves. This, no doubt clearly explains why the Restorative has of late grown so rapidly in popularity. Druggists say that those who test the Restorative even for a few days soon become fully convinced of its wonderful merit. Anyway, don't drug the organs. IF SICK--WHY PAY

Unless Health First Returns.

Here is what should and can be done!

Now you would not willingly pay for food that was worthless—would you?

Then why pay for medicine until that medicine first proves to you its actual worth?

Positively knowing what Dr. Shoop's Restorative can do for the sick, I say to all "don't pay unless health first returns." And I back my Restorative with a signed and sealed 30 day "No Refund, No Pay" contract.

I positively pledge to the sick everywhere that "Dr. Shoop's Restorative is absolutely free if it fails." Let others do the same—or else pass their prescriptions by.

If you need more strength, more vitality, more vigor or more vim, use my Restorative a few days and note the immediate improvement.

When the Stomach, Heart, or Kidneys go wrong, then test Dr. Shoop's Restorative. I do not dose the Stomach nor stimulate the Heart or Kidneys, for that is wrong. Years ago I cast away that mistaken idea in medicine. The books below will best tell you how I am succeeding.

These books also tell of a tiny hidden "inside nerve," no larger than a silken thread. They tell how that nerve, until it fails, actually gives to the Heart its power, its tone, its never-ending action or impulse.

These books will open up new and helpful ideas to those who are not well. They tell how the Stomach and Kidneys each have their "inside" or power nerves. They tell how the Restorative was especially made to reach and revitalize these weak or failing inside nerves. All of these facts tell why I am able to say, "It is free if it fails."

This is why I say "take no chance on a medicine whose maker does not back it just as I do by this remarkable offer."

So write me today for the order.

I have appointed honest and responsible druggists in nearly every community to issue my medicines to the sick.

But write me first for the order.

All druggists sell Dr. Shoop's Restorative, but all are not authorized to give the 30 day test.

So drop me a line please—and thus save disappointment and delays. Tell me also which book you need.

A postal will do.

Besides, you are free to consult me as you would your home physician. My advice and the book below are yours—without cost.

Perhaps a word or two from me will clear up some serious ailment. I have helped thousands upon thousands by my private prescription or personal advice plan. My best effort is surely worth your simple request. So write now while you have it fresh in mind, for tomorrow never comes. Dr. Shoop, Box 12, Racine, Wis.

HELEN GOULD
Into Whose Good Hands Brother's Children Have Fallen.

THE GOULD CHILDREN

Pending Settlement of Parents' Squabble They Are in Good Hands.

New York, July 13.—Mrs. Helen Kelly Gould, divorced wife of Frank Gould, and Ralph Hill Thomas, who were married on Monday, have sailed for Europe. They talked to the reporters just before the ship drew out of dock. Mrs. Thomas said that as Frank Gould had married in Paris before she did here, their children belonged to her. The children, she said, were at Helen Gould's home at Irvington, where they will stay until her return from Europe two months from now. "When we return," she said, "we are going to live at Sand's Point, where the children also will live. They belong to me now, and Helen Gould or Frank Gould have no legal right to them."

EDITORIAL WORK WAS INTERRUPTED

The Colonel Given Little Time for Desk Work.

New York, July 13.—Colonel Roosevelt put in the busiest day at the Outlook office yesterday that he has spent since he became contributing editor. From 9 o'clock in the morning, when he hopped out of the motor car that whizzed him down from Sagamore Hill, until late in the afternoon, he received persons of every sort. He listened to politicians, he talked conversation with others, and he did very little editorial work. He did not have time.

The list of visitors was a long one. Among these was Congressman W. S. Bennett, who announced to the newspaper men that he is a candidate for the gubernatorial nomination in this state. Gifford Pinchot, the deposed chief forester, emerged from the contributing editor's sanctum stating that he would leave for California today to take the stump for Hiram Johnson, an insurgent leader in the west, who is seeking the nomination for governor of California. Speaker James W. Wadsworth, Jr., discussed the state situation and the matter of direct primaries with Mr. Roosevelt. Mr. Bennett told the reporters that he is not in the modest class with Loeb, who has not said whether he will or will not be a candidate for governor. Bennett said that he personally is in the field and he is not ashamed to admit it. He intimated that he would like to receive the O. K. from Roosevelt.

If one might be permitted to judge anything from the congressman's attitude and the negative way in which he answered pointed questions upon his leaving the colonel, one might say that Roosevelt did or said nothing to encourage Bennett. Speaker Wadsworth told the reporters that he knew absolutely nothing about Collector Loeb and that he himself is not in line and had never considered himself as a candidate.

The Gaekwar of Baroda, his noble son, who is a junior at Harvard, and a royal aide-de-camp, lunched with the colonel, who left for Sagamore Hill in his auto late in the day.

THE MAIN ISSUE

What? Why, the Tariff, According to Burgess Point Gossip.

Beverly, Mass., July 13.—Senator Winthrop Murray Crane of Massachusetts was a guest at the Burgess Point summer White House. He stopped for lunch with the president. It was admitted that Senator Crane and the president talked some about the political situation, but no definite plans were made. The outlines of the coming campaign are pretty clear already, it was stated. The tariff is to be the main issue, according to expectations, with plenty of subordinate worries to keep the Republican congressional campaign committee on the jump all fall. Senator Crane is of the opinion that there is an upward tendency in business that will argue well for the dominant party and may be looked for to offset Democratic oratory as to the Payne-Aldrich tariff law.

NOT HELD TO BE UNFRIENDLY ACT

Germany's Views Cause No Concern at Washington.

Washington, July 13.—Officers of the state department do not regard the action of the German foreign office in congratulating Madrid, president de facto of Nicaragua, upon his accession to the presidency, as an act unfriendly to the present policy of the United States in dealing with Nicaragua. The communication from William to Madrid, they contend, was a perfunctory message made without the slightest regard to actual conditions there. Germany has comparatively small interests in that section, and the officials of the department contend that the message is of no significance as indicating Germany's attitude toward Nicaragua.

By Way of London.

London, July 13.—The Berlin correspondent of the Standard, without giving the source, states that the following was supplied to him as an authentic exposition of the official German view of the kaiser's letter to President Madrid: "Germany does not recognize any right of the United States to supervise her diplomatic relations with the countries of Central and South America in general or her relations with Nicaragua in particular. Germany's recognition of Madrid is a matter that concerns herself and Nicaragua, and not a third person or power."

The Deadly Gasoline.
Laporte, Ind., July 13.—Mrs. E. B. Weed, aged thirty-five, the daughter of Mrs. C. D. Hess of Westville, past president of the Woman's Relief Corps, department of Indiana, and prominent in Eastern Star circles, is dead from injuries received when a gasoline stove which she was lighting, exploded. Mrs. Weed was the wife of a wealthy merchant of this city.

Important Court Decision

The Supreme court has affirmed a decision from Howard county regarding the sale of liquor by druggists to be used as a beverage. It rules that sales of intoxicating liquors are absolutely prohibited by druggists (at all times, under Sec. 8352, Burns 1908) to be drunk as a beverage; and that a druggist seeking to justify a sale of whiskey as made for medicinal purposes, has the burden to prove that the sale was so made to such a person—that it was really lawful. (2) It is no defense to a prosecution for the sale of intoxicating liquor by a druggist, without such strict compliance, to show that it was sold in good faith for medicinal purposes. (3) Sec. 8352, Burns 1908, does not permit a druggist to sell intoxicating liquors for any purpose upon a printed prescription of a physician or application of the purchaser, but if made on the purchaser's application it must be written and signed by such applicant. (4) No sale can lawfully be made on the purchaser's signed application unless he is personally known to the druggist and known by him not to be in the habit of using intoxicating liquors as a beverage. (5) Such an application to protect the druggist in selling thereon, must specify a single purpose for which it is to be used, either medicinal, scientific or industrial, and not all three disjunctively. (6) It must be dated as well as signed by the purchaser. (7) The date of the sale must be plainly written thereon by the person making such sale, or he will not be protected. (8) The application must be signed by the purchaser's full and correct name; signing an assumed name will not protect the seller.

Picnics Germ Working

This is the open season for picnics. Every organization from the six year old Sunday school class up to the Amalgamated Association of Airship Aviators will have a picnic this summer if they have not already had one. The affliction of "picnics" arrives with the first hot weather and lasts, like hay fever, until the first frost.

The afflicted ones can be found in most any shady spot in the county, in the cool woods, along the creek banks and at such places as Moscow, Webb's Ford, Denning's Grove, Link's Grove, Parrish Grove and the Country Club. Invariably the person afflicted with "picnics" is a hearty eater. Consequently, when one notices a crowd at these victims preparing to go out into the cool, green country, they will see all carrying heavily laden baskets. On arrival at such places as selected, William, who is going on ten years, is ready to eat supper at 2 o'clock and at the end of twenty minutes is so insistent that the majority yield. All animosity against William is soon forgotten, and at an improvised table—in nearly all cases a spread on the grass—the party seeks to partake of the only "medicine" that offers a cure. Father, who is usually so dignified, reaches four feet across the "table."

"Oh, you chicken sandwich." Fifty-seven varieties of food, all delicacies as a rule are piled high, but the tempting display doesn't last long, for everyone has an inspiration to devour, and attempt to "out-foot" everyone else in the race for food. It is a great race for while the fifty-seven varieties of edibles are in view there are also 7,927 flies on hand and they enter into the game with their accustomed tenacity.

When dusk shows evidence of soon enshrouding the landscape, the disease is hardly noticeable amongst any of the picnickers, and it is apparent that a cure—temporarily at least—has been affected. The trip back home is enjoyed and for a few days the victims feel fine, but just as the sun's rays seem to be getting hotter the disease again breaks out. This way through the long heated term and up until the first frost, is the experience of those who are unfortunate enough not to be immune from this strictly summer disease.

MEETS DEATH UNDER WHEELS

Jesse Monroe Killed Near His Home in New Castle by Rushville
L. E. & W. Train.

HAD LEFT THE TRACK ONCE

Body Ground to Pulp—Had a Similar Accident Only Last February.

Jesse Monroe, aged 37, was ground almost to a pulp when struck by a switch engine and a cut of cars on the Rushville division of the L. E. & W. about 6 o'clock Tuesday morning, says the New Castle Courier. Monroe had been employed at the Central States Cooperage Company for the last two years and at the time of his death, was on his way to the company's office on Race street, where he was employed as janitor.

The Monroe home is on South 15th street facing the L. E. & W. tracks and the railroad is generally used by residents of that vicinity as the nearest avenue to the business district. When struck by the train, Monroe had been away from the house but five minutes and the scene of his death is but two blocks from his home.

According to railroad men and other eye-witnesses of the accident, Monroe was walking in the center of the tracks and when the freight, which had been to the automobile factory, approached from the rear at a moderate speed, the whistle was blown several times and Monroe stepped off the track without looking back. He took but a few steps off the track and then deliberately stepped back in front of the engine. The accident occurred at the frog of the Bentley greenhouse switch.

The train was stopped instantly and the body removed from the tracks to the Fox undertaking establishment. The head was mashed to a pulp and the left leg was cut off at the hip. His left arm was nearly severed and the right foot was cut off.

On February 1 last Monroe was run down by a switch engine and a cut of cars on the same railroad and his hip was dislocated and he received several gashes in his head. He had been out but a few weeks.

Since the first accident Monroe had acted strangely and seemed to be suffering from his injuries. He had been deaf all of his life and had been warned repeatedly about walking on the railroad tracks. The only solution for the accident is that he did not hear the whistle, but stepped off the tracks merely by accident and decided to step back just as the train was about to pass.

He is survived by a wife and two nephews, all of whom lived in the same house.

The funeral was held at the home this afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. Howe officiated and interment was made at Southmound.

Coroner Hiatt notified the L. E. & W. officials that he would hold an inquest at some time convenient for the trainmen. The verdict of the inquest undoubtedly will be "accidental death."

TRIES TO KILL THREE WOMEN

Clyde Avery of Waldron Crazed by Drink, Chases Members of Family With Butcher Knife.

PLEADS GUILTY AND PAYS FINE

Was Finally Overpowered by Section
Hands Before Carrying Out
His Terrible Threat.

The enactment of a tragedy more terrible than words can tell might have been the result of a rampage of a drink-crazed man with murder in his heart, which occurred in the peaceful little village of Waldron on Monday afternoon, says the Shelbyville Republican.

Clyde Avery of that place was the individual who caused all the trouble and he not only threatened to kill his wife, her sister and Miss Lena Maple, in cold blood, but snatched up a butcher knife and attempted to make his threat good. He probably would have done so had he not been prevented by a gang of section hands and overpowered while chasing the women through a vacant lot brandishing the huge weapon.

Avery went to St. Paul Monday and while in that place he imbibed freely of that which inebriates and when he arrived home at 3 o'clock in the afternoon his condition was sad to behold. He went directly to his home and upon entering his house it is said that he began to curse his wife and her sister because they did not have dinner ready. The two women were thoroughly frightened and they made haste to comply with his wishes. When they had the table set, however, he became more displeased than ever and staggering upon the table he grabbed the table cloth in his hands and giving a mighty jerk the dishes were scattered all over the floor. He also broke considerable furniture. The women tried to pacify him but their words only served to fan his fury.

Finally, it is alleged, with a terrible oath he said, "I am going to kill you both and be rid of you."

No sooner had he spoken than he seized a long butcher knife, it is said, and waving it threateningly aloft he sprang toward the terrified women who fled to the home of David Maple, a neighbor, screaming in terror.

They thought to gain protection from the inflamed man at this place, but he forced the door open and darted in after them. Here he espied another victim in Miss Lena Maple and he also threatened to end her mortal existence. The three women then rushed from the house and running at incredible speed they crossed a vacant lot screaming for help. As fast as they ran, however, it seemed that the would-be murderer could run faster, and he had almost caught them when a gang of section men, attracted by the cries of the women, ran to their rescue and succeeded in overpowering the man. The women were exhausted from fear and running. A large crowd soon gathered.

Shortly afterward Avery was arrested by a constable who took him before Squire Thad Lewis. He pleaded guilty to the charge of intoxication and stayed a fine and costs of $10.

An hour after his arrest it was said that he was back up town cursing and trying to pick a fight. He was left alone, however, and finally quieted down.

Mrs. Avery stayed with friends Monday night and Tuesday morning with her little child she left Waldron for Greenfield, where her parents reside. She vowed that she would never return.

Avery, it is said, has been drunk many times, and when in this condition he is always in a belligerent mood. Mr. and Mrs. Avery have been married four years.

Henry County Sheriff and Coroner
Still Believe Elmer Oliver Was Killed Sunday Morning.

CONDUCTING INVESTIGATION

Have Learned That Young Man Had a Large Amount of Money
Saturday Evening.

Coroner Hiatt, Sheriff Kirk and Prosecutor Evans spent a part of Tuesday at Cambridge City, Dublin, and Knightstown investigating the death of Elmer Oliver, formerly employed at the automobile factory, whose mangled remains were found on the Big Four track, near Knightstown Sunday morning, says the New Castle Times. The coroner and officers are not satisfied that Oliver met death under a train, but are of the opinion that he was killed and the body placed on the track so that the first passing train would hide the crime.

It was first stated that no money was found on Oliver's person, but a search of the clothing Monday afternoon resulted in finding $6.75. It is said that when Oliver left his boarding house in New Castle last Saturday he had between $50 and $60 on his person and the officers are at a loss to explain the absence of this money. The fact that it is gone leads to the belief that Oliver might have been robbed and then placed on the track. The scarcity of blood when the body was found lends credence to the claim that Oliver was dead before being placed on the track.

Oliver went to Cambridge City on Saturday afternoon with three young men from New Castle. The officers were at Cambridge Tuesday morning and investigated this crew. They found that Oliver had been there, but they could go no further in ascertaining how and when he went to Knightstown. Two of the three young men he was with left him in Cambridge City at 7 o'clock and came to New Castle. They know nothing further about him, as both were arrested and spent until Monday morning in jail. The third went to Auburn, west of Cambridge City, and spent the night, the officers finding the people with whom he stayed.

Coroner Hiatt has not yet rendered a verdict in the young man's death and will not do so until he completes a rigid investigation. There is every evidence that a crime was committed and the mystery will be delved into thoroughly. Oliver's death might have been an accident, but there is just enough evidence pointing to foul play to cause the officers to make a thorough investigation.

How Would a "Full Jewelled" Typewriter Appeal to You?

Every important bearing in an expensive watch is a small gem of a hardness not susceptible to wear. The purpose of the jewels is to insure by reduction of friction and wear, the accuracy which makes a timepiece valuable.

The first successful use of a ball-bearing typewriter in a writing-in-sight machine was by the manufacturers of the New Model L. C. Smith & Bros. Typewriter.

Ball Bearings not only for the typebars, but at all vital wearing points of the New Model are made to serve exactly the same purpose as the jewelled bearings of an accurate, expensive watch. They prevent play and false motion, banish friction, and insure to the operator, for every ounce of energy applied, a full equivalent of perfect work. You demand a full jewelled watch. Why not a full ball-bearing typewriter?

BELIEVED THAT CAR HIT HIM

Bert Gray, thirty-five years old, employed as track laborer for the Big Four at Acton, was killed last night by an Indianapolis & Cincinnati traction car, says the Indianapolis News. His body was found lying beside the track this morning. It is believed that he was walking along the side of the track, but did not get far enough away to avoid being struck. The motorman on the last car through Acton, which passes there at 12:12 o'clock, remembers seeing a man beside the track, but did not know the car struck him. Coroner Blackwell is investigating the case.

COMMUNITY IS ALL WORKED UP

Logansport Agitated by Reports of Field Examiners.

TOOK PEOPLE BY SURPRISE

Allegations Reflecting Upon Nine Former Township Trustees Came Wholly Unexpectedly and the Report of the Examiners of the State Accounting Board Has Created a Genuine Sensation in That County.

Logansport, Ind., July 13.—Not for years has anything happened in Logansport that has caused so much talk and so much comment as the published report of the field examiners from the state accounting board.

It is the one thing that the people of this town are talking about, and though there are a few who are still condemning the law, the vast majority of the people realize now that the law is a good thing for the taxpayers' pocketbook. And it might be asserted in passing that if the law needed any defense in this community it certainly got it when the report of the examiners was made public.

Of the nine ex-trustees against whom the examiners made accusations in their reports, five are Democrats and four are Republicans. Edgar S. Phillips is the Republican county chairman, and is also the Republican nominee for auditor of Cass county. O. N. Shirley is the Republican nominee for county recorder. O. P. Erbaugh and Herman Martin are nominees for members of the county council on the Democratic ticket.

More of the Same.

Indianapolis, July 13.—Field examiners have charged back a total of $2,564.89 against two former trustees of Perry county, in reports which have just been certified out by the chief examiner of the state board of accounts. Jacob Hauser, trustee of Anderson township from 1905 to 1908, is charged with $1,941.53, and J. T. Harrison, trustee of Tobin township for the same period, is charged with $623.36.

DEADLY WRECK

Fireman Killed, Engineer Seriously Injured Near Princeton.

Princeton, Ind., July 13.—West-bound passenger train No. 24, of the St. Louis-Louisville division of the Southern railway, jumped the track two miles west of Princeton and Fireman William Finney, aged thirty-five, married, was instantly killed and Engineer E. E. Reeves perhaps fatally injured. The engine and tender buried themselves in the mud and were torn to pieces. The passenger coaches were not overturned and no passengers were seriously hurt. The wreck was caused by sand washing over the track to a depth of eight inches during a rainstorm a short time before the train came.

TOO MUCH POLITICS

That Is the Complaint Put Up by James J. Hill.

New York, July 13.—James J. Hill has come back to town from a three-weeks' fishing trip in Labrador. By the time he had looked over the dispatches awaiting him, Mr. Hill had formed a pretty optimistic opinion about the business outlook.

"I am making the prediction," said he, "that if they will only leave us alone everything will be all right. There are some honest, intelligent men in this country who want to do business the right way. But they can't do it as long as they are hampered with politics. Just let them let us alone."

HASN'T GIVEN UP

Black Still Has Hope of Retiring Congressman Dalzell.

Pittsburg, July 13.—The Allegheny county commissioners have completed their count of the ballots in the Thirtieth congressional district, which gave Dalzell 11,045 and Robert J. Black 18,838, giving Dalzell a majority of 27 votes. Black will not give up his fight on Dalzell, however, and says he will move to have the vote of what is known as the triangular district thrown out, which will give him a majority.

WYETH'S SAGE AND SULPHUR HAIR RESTORER

Grew a Full Growth of Hair On a Bald Head.

Here's the Proof

For two or three years my hair had been falling out and getting quite thin, until the top of my head was entirely bald. About four months ago I commenced using Sage and Sulphur. The first bottle seemed to do some good and I kept using it regularly, until now I have used four bottles. The whole top of my head is now fairly covered with hair and it keeps coming in thicker. I shall keep on using it a while longer, as I notice a constant improvement.

DIAMONDS.

It is often said that the importation of diamonds is a pretty fair test of American prosperity. If that be true, business conditions cannot be so bad just now, for New York alone is receiving today half the world's diamonds.

Last year this country paid at the docks $46,000,000 for precious stones of which $38,000,000 was for diamonds. Nearly three quarters of these stones were cut.

Since the discovery of diamonds in South Africa the DeBeers Co. has produced 75,000,000 carats of stones, worth over $650,000,000. For years it controlled 95 per cent. of the world's trade. But now Germany has spent $50,000,000 in the development of her South-west African diamond fields, and is taking out a good many stones of fair size. So the old British monopoly appears to be in danger. A recent European jewelry journal prints a cartoon of John Bull and the Kaiser playing cards with the inscription "diamonds" are trumps.
